FOREWORD

We, the senior class of '49, take pride in presenting this our first and last annual. We hope you enjoy it as much as we have enjoyed working on it.

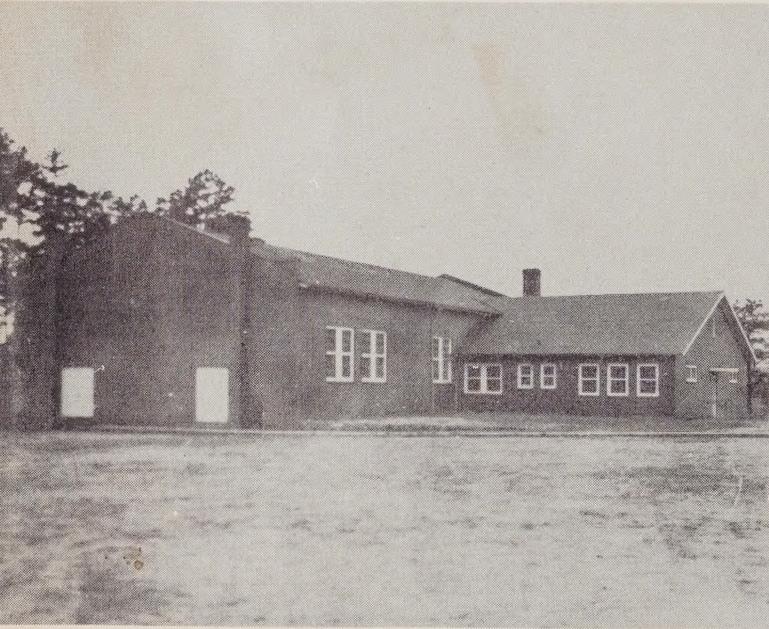

We have tried to capture our lighter moments, so that in years to come, we can look back upon our school days as some of the happiest in our lives.

We know it is far from perfect, but we hope you will overlook the flaws and look upon it as the work of the future leaders of America.

HISTORY OF CLASS OF '49

It was in the year nineteen hundred and forty-four that we, the Seniors of '49, were attempting a new phase of life—meeting new friends and renewing old acquaintances. We were then in the eighth grade, 66 of us, with Mrs. S. H. Price and Mr. William Gore as our faithful and persevering guides. We were all very glad for the spring of '45 to roll around and for the day of graduation to pass so we could say that we were in high school. Just think, Freshmen—would you like to be there again?! I would not think you would be as proud now as you once were.

This fall we again had Mr. Gore as one homeroom teacher with Mrs. Bain Sink as the other, each undertaking a great responsibility and each day teaching us "rowdy" students right from wrong all over again. This year the girls taking Home Economics were initiated and given membership into the F. H. A. The social highlight of this year was a wiener roast and skating party. The year was successfully brought to a close with nothing very exciting happening.

The following fall we were all back once again with Miss Evelyn Little (now Mrs. Bill Goodman) as our Sophomore advisor. We will all remember this year because of Biology, remember the worms and crayfish we dissected—and Mrs. Sink and her bugs?????? (More Fun!)

Before we realized it, the year of '48 was peeping around the corner. There were 37 Juniors in number and we had with us Miss Katharine Weisiger, our advisor, and Mr. C. L. Barnhardt as a new principal. Just think, we were Jolly Juniors and began to look forward for a fuller year than those of previous times. After the first semester eight of the class were qualified and given membership in the National Honorary Beta Club. They were: Louise Morgan, Margaret Morris, Martha McNeely, Dorothy Eller, Martha Pinkston, Betty Graham, Helen Thompson, and Donald Graham. We began to work on ways to sponsor our Junior-Senior Prom. At the basketball games we sold cold drinks, candy and cake. Too, we sold magazine subscriptions and with these projects we made a good profit. In April we got into the full swing of decorating and making preparations for our hard-earned Junior-Senior. We hope the Seniors of '48 enjoyed the honor as well as the Junior Class enjoyed sponsoring it.

Now came the close of our Junior year and within our last week of school we were proud to be the first Junior Class to order our class rings.

After a prolonged vacation, we entered the threshold of being Seniors—35 strong! Much to our amazement upon counting, we find there are only 13, who upon completing our career as graduates from high school, entered the first grade together at dear old Mt. Ulla. Those being, namely: Shannon Coble, Mary Lee Goodman, Irene Steele, Naomi Hoffner, Helen Thompson, Donald Graham, Kingsley McKnight, Lynn Edwards, Leonard Caldwell, Bill Brown, Perry Kerr, E. K. Graham, and Jackie Graham.

We immediately set forth our best efforts to accomplish a successful year, with Margaret Morris as class president, along with Mr. Barnhardt and Miss Ina Stevenson, a new member of the faculty and Senior advisor. We soon elected our year book staff and the class day officers. After the first report period we found that there were seven Seniors eligible for the National Beta Club. They were Mary Lee Goodman, Mary Ruth Cashion, Barbara Eller, Berry Sue Kistler, Shannon Coble, Irene Steele, and Bill Brown.

And now, we, the seniors of '49, are leaving our heartfelt gratitude to our principal, our teachers and parents who have been so faithful and understanding throughout the passing years.

LAST WILL and TESTAMENT

We, the Senior Class of '49, of the Mount Ulla High School, being of strong mind and body and outstanding traits and characteristics, go our way, endeavoring to leave to our under-classmen certain traits and reputations, hoping that they will continue to uphold them and carry on with enjoyment as we have in the past.

ITEM I: To our parents, who have endeavored to make our high school life a most enjoyable one, we leave our undying love and heartfelt gratitude.

ITEM II: To Miss Ina Stevenson, Mr. C. L. Barnhardt and members of the entire faculty, we leave our thanks and appreciation for their thoughtful efforts and lasting patience, in making our high school career a successful one.

ITEM III: As individuals we leave our Last Will and Testament:

I, Bill Brown, leave my "gentleman's manners" to Bob Weast, hoping he will use them to the extent that I have.

I, Gene Beard, leave my quiet and sober nature to Alec Corriher.

I, Jackie Graham, leave my ability to skip classes to anyone who can make it successfully.

I, Louise Morgan, leave my "surplus" intelligence to anyone needing it.

I, Helen Thompson, will my pleasing personality to Nena Faye Karriker.

I, Clyde Schenk, leave my love for baseball to Lonnie Graham.

We, Shannon Coble and Margaret Morris, leave our undying friendship to Gladys Kistler and Betty Horton.

I, Donald Graham, leave my undeciding grin to Jack Parks.

I, Martha Cline, leave my position as library assistant to any junior girl.

I, Betty Graham, leave my basketball suit to anyone who enjoys wearing it as much as I.

I, Mary Elizabeth Foster, leave my pug nose to my favorite teacher, Miss Craven.

To Faye Brown, I, Mary Lee Davis, leave my "little giggles."

I, Betty Sue Kistler, leave my "innocent blushes" to Nellie Davis.

I, E. K. Graham, leave my curly hair to John Henry Bollinger.

I, J. B. Heglar, Jr., leave my "slow but almost sure movement" to Bill Ballard.

I, Johnny Shumaker, leave my tallness to Donald Belk. Grow up, Ace!

I, Betty Shutt, leave my love for basketball to Doris Graham.

I, Faye Albright, leave my love for ice cream to Beatrice Link.

I, Irene Steele, leave my affection for radio programs to Margaret Cauble.

I, Peggy Lyerly, leave my privilege of riding either of the Hurley buses to school to anyone who can do so.

I, Fannie Mae Graham, leave my weight to Patty Moore. You need it, don't you, Patty?

I, Leonard Caldwell, leave my "love for Salisbury" to Jim Lefler.

We, Barbara and Dorothy Eller, leave our "dry wit" to Peggy Cauble and Betty Owen.

I, Richard Hall, leave my ability to be every girl's boyfriend to my brother, Harry.

We, Naomi Hoffner and Mary Ruth Cashion, leave our policy of exchanging "little secrets" to Phoebe Hall and Betty Anderson.

I, Kingsley McKnight, will my ability to graduate without excessive study to Tom Turner.

I, Perry Kerr, leave my seat in study hall to anyone who can benefit by it better than I did.

I, Lynn Edwards, leave "my innocent when guilty" look to Bob Drury.

I, Rilza Wiley, leave my wavy hair to Margaret McKnight.

I, Mary Lee Goodman, leave my winning smile to Louise Goodman.

And I, Martha Pinkston, being of questionable sound mind and character, do affix my signature to this Last Will and Testament of the Class of '49.

STATISTICS OF '49

And so this group of shining geniuses has taken the final and fatal step in their great career as a student of Mount Ulla High School. So in departing we leave behind these facts and figures that will distinguish us from any ordinary group of Seniors.

Beginning at the ground we find that the average senior boy has a firm foundation because a size nine and one-half shoe fits his foot perfectly. However, the ladies of this class of '49 have a more dainty foot which requires only a small six and one-half. It is evident that Mary Ruth Cashion's size eight does not enter into this class.

Glancing around at the seniors we notice that brown is the color of almost every senior's hair. This does not include the blondes who seem to attract so many wolf-whistles nor does it include Bill Brown's black waves. Much of the brown hair is highlighted by hazel eyes in the girls' statistics, although Betty Shutt insists that her eyes are green. On the other hand, the boys boast brown eyes into which the average girl gazes from a petite five feet four and one-half inches. The stronger sex looks down on the girls from a five feet, eight inch build which tips the scales at one hundred and forty-nine pounds. Both the height and the weight do not include Johnnie Shumaker and J. B. Heglar, who either rank smaller or larger than this class. The men of our class have seen eighteen summers while the average senior lass has seen only seventeen.

The food question was a difficult one since each member of the class loves to eat, but the favorite was ice cream, although Mary Lee Davis insists that fried chicken cannot be topped.

Nothing can be more fun for this group of brilliant seniors than to hear the familiar words to our favorite songs, "I Want to Be the Only One" and "My Happiness"; therefore, when we feel at all depressed we switch the radio dial to "Matinee With Morris" to hear them crooned by our number one crooner, Bing Crosby, or if we prefer jive we tune it to Sammy Kaye.

At last the question of movies and movie stars was asked. Although the answers varied, we finally settled for the glamorous June Allyson as actress and handsome Peter Lawford leading the male list. The "Babe Ruth Story" seemed to thrill the athletic seniors since it won as favorite movie. "Duel In The Sun" and "Taproots" ranked high as favorites also.

The brilliant senior girls offer good prospects as housewife because most of them chose Home Economics as their favorite subject. However, the male gender of our class swing to the business side of life with their choice of typing.

Our favorite teacher is Miss Stevenson who has been our constant guide and friend in straightening out the stumbling places of our fight for a successful senior year.

With all of our statistics plainly stated, we close the volume of Life at Mount Ulla High School to the volume of everyday life.

CLASS POEM

We have reached the summit by striving long
By shunning folly and righting wrong
We know that those who success would seek
Must labor hard as they go along.

To those who have offered their teachings
We pledge love, purity, and loyalty
As our quest for knowledge we are reaching
So their love we are beseeching
For they gave their best while we collect the royalty.

To blazoned heights our path shall lead
To a splendor greater than one can conceive
We proclaim that wisdom can impart any need
And undivided truth we shall seek to believe.

May our path be made cheery and bright
By our Alma Mater's shining light
And our hearts be filled with thanks sincere
As we journey on from year to year.

PROPHECY

1821 East 4th Street
Boothwyn, Pennsylvania
April 18, 1958

Dear Naomi,

Have you ever believed in fairies and giant dragon flies? Neither had I until last night. I had just gotten home from a hard day's work and sat down for a bit of relaxation. No sooner than I had begun to feel relaxed than I heard the strangest noise and looking about me I saw the smallest creature that I had ever seen. Naturally I was startled as well as curious and upon rising to investigate I felt myself growing smaller and smaller and suddenly I was sailing through space on the back of a giant dragon fly, seeing the years fall behind me.

As mystified as I was, I could not help glancing about me and in doing so saw our old and very dear friend, Martha Pinkston. She has been quite successful in her work as a missionary in the foreign countries.

From Europe my fairy guide turned toward home and as we crossed the Pacific Ocean, there was Johnny Shumaker scrubbing a ship's deck and murdering a chorus of "Here Comes The Navy."

New York was our next stop and from my position atop the Empire State Building, I could see a group of people viewing an art exhibition. In the midst, I saw Louise Morgan and to the far right Bill Brown came into view. No doubt you remember how artistically inclined they both were.

Nearer home in Chicago, we paused long enough to see Clyde Schenk sock a home run for the White Socks. Clyde is really going places in professional baseball. Seems he's captured the title as home run king.

Being a little hungry (as usual) I persuaded my friend to stop for a bite to eat. No sooner had we stopped than J. B. Heglar (now owner of Club 21) came for our order. While waiting for him to return I saw Richard Hall who is now a prosperous banker in Huntersville and E. K. Graham, his man Friday exchanging news and comments.

After leaving the great city of Chicago, we neared home. As we passed through Georgia, I saw Rilza Wiley, who, incidentally, married that certain freshman, scrubbing away on a small blond haired boy's ears while he complained loudly, "Don't Mommy, you hurt."

Next we saw more familiar country and immediately after arriving in North Carolina, I was scared half out of my wits. However, after looking about me, I saw Betty Graham, violently shooing a chicken off her prize flowers, while Donald Graham, her better half, went from nest to nest gathering eggs. The "Graham Chicken Farm" is the largest of its kind in North Carolina. Betty and Donald are very busy with their chickens and two-year-old twin sons.

"Flutters," the name I had now linked with my fairy guide, carried me next to a large farm on the outskirts of Raleigh. How amazed I was to see our old friend Martha Cline sweeping the steps of a beautiful brick home while two blonde haired little girls played in the yard.

After our brief trip to Raleigh, we went to Hickory. I was delighted to learn that Barbara Jean Eller has gained so much popularity as director of the Lutheran Conference held at Lenoir Rhyne College annually. I also saw Lynn Edwards, who is now quite a distinguished professor of aeronautics.

By this time I was rather anxious to see our old home town—Mount Ulla. How surprised I was to see that the fair city is now one of the leading ones of the nation. The first thing I noticed was an exclusive ladies shoppe. Since curiosity was nagging at me, I decided to go in. Can you imagine who was owner? None other than Mary Lee Goodman, and with Shannon Coble as model and Dorothy Eller as salesgirl, it's no wonder that she's so successful. After the usual oh's of a ladies shoppe, I went on with my search. I was almost speechless when Mayor Perry Kerr presented me with the key to the city. Later I passed his office and saw Margaret Morris perched on the boss' knee and then I knew Perry hadn't changed. Continuing down Main Street of Mount Ulla, I met Gene Beard. I asked him about some of the boys of which I had lost contact. Incidentally, Gene is the professor of Geography in high school. He told me that Dick Caldwell owned a large farm on the outskirts of Mount Ulla. His chief crops are cotton and tobacco. Perhaps you remember how Kingsley McKnight used to debate in our class meetings. Now he is North Carolina's representative to the Supreme Court. While we were talking, Betty Sue Kistler came up. She told us that Helen Thompson married that certain guy from Salisbury and they now operate the "Thompson & Bonds Jewelry Store." Betty Sue is the manager of the "Pineview Theater" of which Ted Correll is featured star. I decided to pay the theater a visit and upon arriving learned that Irene Steele was to cooperate with it by broadcasting the program on WSAT. Irene has gone into partnership with a certain guy whose program is known as "Matinee With Morris."

After leaving the theater I noticed that there were several of our classmates of which I had not seen. I continued my search and bumped into Betty Shutt. She told me that she was owner of "Shutt's Cafe" and that Fannie Mae Graham was her assistant. She also said that Mary Elizabeth Foster now operates a successful beauty salon. I asked her about Peggy Lyerly and she told me that Peggy had married a rich farmer and had moved to Fayetteville.

Leaving "Shutt" at the next corner, I continued wandering through the streets of Mount Ulla. The next thing that attracted my attention was a brightly colored neon sign reading, "Graham & Son's Construction Co." Being a little curious, I went in and in doing so saw Jackie Graham, owner, discussing business and personal problems with his partner—that Junior girl.

Probably you already know that Mary Lee Davis finally sprung the trap on that "Mousie" in which she was so interested. It seems that they have settled down in a cosy little nest and have two adorable little boys.

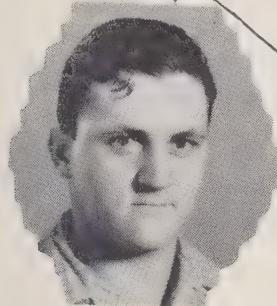

My last visit was to the home of Faye Albright. She now lives in a large white house as chief cook and bottle washer for that certain guy in which she always seemed concerned. They have two cute little girls.

Speaking of bottle washing, I am probably keeping you from taking care of the children. Anyway, "Flutters" has told me it was time to wake up and return to my work, so I must close. Give my love to the children and come to see me soon.

Sincerely,

MARY RUTH CASHION
